

CUT THIS SHIT OFF

I SEE WHAT YOU DID THERE: HOW TO PLAY DESCRIPTION

The goal of this game is to convince your friends you're clever by being able to relate the cards in your hand any way possible while also utilizing actions to gain advantage over your opponents, dishing out punishments while minimizing their affect on you.

Before you start playing there are 3 basic guidelines to follow:

1.) In order to win, a player must be in control of 3 stacks.

The more creative you are, the easier this game gets.

2.) Don't be a dick.

This game is as much about fun as it is about winning.

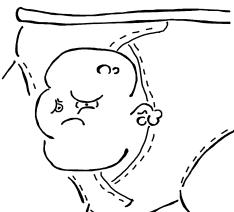

3.) You have freedom!

Every bit of this game is open to interpretation,
settle any and all disputes via voting!

SET UP

TURN ORDER

Each player is dealt 6 cards
Whoever has the most stuff
in their pockets gets to go first.
Play continues to the left

During a player's turn they may do 1 instance of each of the following:
A.) Attempt to MAKE A STACK,
B.) PLAY A CARD,
C.) COUNTER A CARD

NOTE: These actions can happen in any order
The player signals the end of their turn by:
DRAWING 1 CARD

MAKING STACKS

Stacks are 3 cards that a player has successfully combined through some relation or story.

A stack is successful when the majority of other players agree that "they saw what you did there."

Voting for stacks is signaled with a single finger:

Pointing a finger up in the air signals to others "I see what you did there"

Pointing a finger down to the ground signals that "I DO NOT see what you did there"

If the vote succeeds, place the 3 cards face down in front of the player.

In the result of a tie, the cards are returned to the player's hand

If the vote fails, put the cards in the trash

EXAMPLE OF A STACK

In Diagram 1 (right) we show an example of what appears to be an easy stack.

The trick is HOW you present your stack. You could say,
"Rats, Sloth, and Dog; these are all pets."

Simple enough, right?

Maybe it's too simple and people think it violates the "Don't be a dick" rule due to the simplistic nature of the stack. Where's the creativity?!

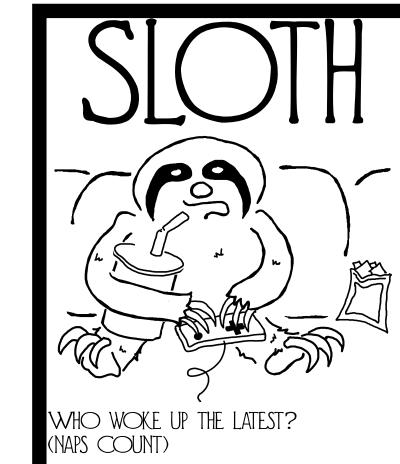

Why not try something more creative like saying,
"First I had Rats, but they didn't help me working out so

I felt as lazy as a Sloth, so I got a Dog to play with."

By telling a story you can have your fellow players saying,
"I See What You Did There!"

CUT THIS SHIT OFF

PLAYING A CARD

Instead of using a card to make a stack a player may choose to use the card's ability.

Played cards go in the trash after their actions have been completed, unless the card says the following:

"THIS CARD IS IN PLAY
UNTIL IT IS COUNTERED BY ANOTHER CARD"

NOTE: You're free to interpret the cards however you see fit. If there's a disagreement, vote on it!

IN PLAY CARDS

In play cards have effects that alter the way that the game is played. There are two types of in play cards; target and global.

Target cards effect one specific player
Global cards effect every player

An in play card's effect lasts until that card is countered by another card.

Most in play cards require a punishment if the card is not followed correctly!

COUNTERING IN PLAY CARDS

Tired of a particular in play card messing you up? The solution is simple, all you have to do is convince your fellow players why a card in your hand justifies nullifying the in play card.

Much like making a stack, countering a card involves getting other players to "see what you did there"

And just like attempting a stack, players will vote on whether or not they saw what you did there.

If the majority agrees, send both cards to the trash
If the majority disagrees, the player retains the card

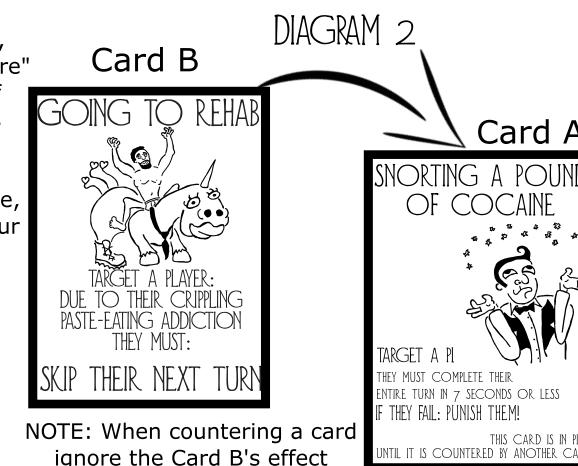

EXAMPLE OF COUNTERING AN IN PLAY CARD

In Diagram 2 we have Card A in play in front of you. In your hand you have Card B, and decide that you no longer want to suffer the ongoing effects of Card A. So what do you do? Use Card B to counter Card A, of course! You could say something like, "I'M GOING TO REHAB so I stop SNORTING A POUND OF COCAINE all the time!"

If the other players say, "I see what you did there" Then you just got rid of Card A! (Put both cards in the trash.)

If you don't win the vote, Card B goes back to your hand and Card A stays in play.

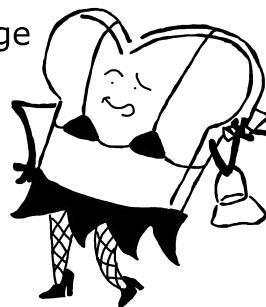

REMEMBER:
ANY CARD can be used to counter ANY in play card. Be creative!

PUNISHMENTS

Sometimes this game calls for a player that violates an in play card to be punished. What that punishment is should be decided before the start of the game and should be consistent throughout. If this is your first time playing I See What You Did There, here are a couple examples to get the thought ball rolling:

- 1.) Give a card to the player who caught you
(SUGGESTED FOR FIRST TIME PLAYERS)
- 2.) Take a sip of your favorite beverage
- 3.) Do 5 pushups
- 4.) Put a card in the Trash
- 5.) Shuffle a card into the Deck
- 6.) Lose a finger
- 7.) Lick the lint from a person's belly
